Engine Revision

Description

An independent study option for students wishing to utilise the academy's learning resources as part of a personal revision programme to refresh and/or update their professional knowledge.

This study option includes full access to the academy's learning resources, including the on-site nautical library, Internet access, training software and past MCA question papers.

Participation in relevant class tutorials or even direct tutorial support can be arranged in advance if required, with associated costs being determined by the level and amount of tutorial support needed. Please discuss your individual requirements with our Course Administrator, although you may be referred to a particular lecturer to answer specific queries.

Start Dates
